Stopping of Admission and College Name Change

The Japanese Department of Trident College of Languages and Hotel will stop admitting new students in October 2015 due to a systematic restructuring within Trident Colleges. (It has not yet been decided when the Japanese Department will again start to accept new students.)

Moreover, Trident College of Beauty and Bridal will also stop admitting new students in April 2015. At the same time, a new department, the Bridal Department will be established in Trident College of Languages and Hotel, and the school's name will be changed to Trident College of Languages, Hotel and Bridal.

Trident was established in 1976 as the first vocational training college in Aichi prefecture under the name of Nagoya International College, today known as Trident College of Languages and Hotel. Since its establishment, we have endeavored to train specialists in various fields. To provide a more substantial education in the future, Trident College will be making the changes as outlined below.

We are now accepting applications for the regular 12 month course starting in April 2015. We assume all responsibility to support currently registered students and new students who are going to enroll in our school in achieving their goals by providing a rewarding program and an environment promoting education. Please feel at ease while pursuing your studies at our school.

Best regards,
